ORALL 2017 Program Descriptions
(Note: Speakers and topics are subject to change, and we will do our best to update attendees if this occurs.)

Wednesday, October 18, 2017

4:30 pm – 5:30 pm

Preconference Session A: Conference Hotel Room TBD

New ORALLians
This program will benefit anyone wishing to maximize their involvement in ORALL and jump-start their conference experience. The program will start with a brief presentation covering the presenters’ tips for new conference attendees. This will be followed by a panel of speakers, who will introduce ORALL and give advice for new members wishing to become more involved in ORALL through activities such as publishing in the newsletter and volunteering for committees.

The second half of the program will be interactive, with icebreakers and quick exercises designed to jumpstart your ORALL engagement. Participants will leave with new acquaintances and can continue to build on these mini-conversations over the course of the conference.

Speakers: Amelia Landenberger, Marissa Mason, Shannon Kemen, and additional panelists

Preconference Session B: Conference Hotel Room TBD

ORALLian Leadership: Winning Strategies
Over the past three years, speaker Andrew Dorchak has attended both a year-long leadership training program (eight full-day sessions on various topics) for staff offered by CWRU and the 2017 AALL Management Institute (2.5 days), facilitated by Maureen Sullivan.

These two programs on cutting-edge leadership skills offered both common and unique perspectives, which Mr. Dorchak will draw on to help teach ORALL colleagues, especially those who are in long-term supervisory positions, ways to improve their work situations. And maybe even their lives!

Speaker: Andrew Dorchak

Thursday, October 19, 2017

9:00 am – 10:00 am

Session 1: Tinkham Veale: Ballrooms A & B

Legal Research in ORALL States Compared and Contrasted
A variation on last year’s popular presentation; this year we will take a particular area of law (e.g., regulatory) and do a deeper dive of the similarities and differences between ORALL states. Come ready to share your specialized legal research knowledge about ORALL states and any other states’ quirks that might help legal researchers.

Speakers: Sara Sampson, Ashley Ahlbrand, and Amelia Landenberger

10:30 am – 11:30 am
Session 2A: Tinkham Veale: Ballroom A

How to Find Things Online When They've "Disappeared"
What do you do when something you or your patrons relied on has disappeared from the Internet? We will cover the Wayback Machine on the Internet Archive, digital preservation projects designed to combat link rot (among other things), and a variety of tips and tricks for finding things online that seem to have disappeared.

Speakers: Ingrid Mattson and Stephanie Ziegler

Session 2B: Tinkham Veale: Ballroom B

How Does the Unauthorized Practice of Law Differ from Reference "Services?
This presentation will help you understand the legal definition of the unauthorized practice of law (UPL), the application of the legal definition to hypothetical situations, and why you should care (i.e., what penalties you could face for UPL).

Speakers: Saralean Petite

1:05 pm – 2:05 pm

Session 3A: Tinkham Veale: Ballroom A

Academic Outreach: Expanding the Role of the Law Library Within a Larger Academic Institution
Many law schools are part of a larger college or university system. Libraries for those schools often have the opportunity to serve a much larger academic community than just the law school. This session will cover winning strategies for serving the larger university community—marketing and outreach to non-law students and professors, ideas for services, collaboration with other libraries, good practices for teaching and providing assistance, and ways to raise the profile of the law library on the campus in general. In addition, the session will cover ways in which a strong collaborative relationship with the greater campus can benefit the law school, including undergraduate recruitment and increased library usage statistics.

Speakers: L. Cindy Dabney and Kimberly Mattioli

Session 3B: Tinkham Veale: Ballroom B

Strategies for Coping with Chaos or How We Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Destruction
The Law Library at the University of Kentucky is in the midst of a renovation and will be in temporary housing with little to no access to the physical collection for at least two years. The law firm library at Bricker and Eckler is also in the midst of a complete renovation along with the building’s lobby. It has morphed from one central library to a number of smaller “satellite” libraries (at least one of which is temporary until a permanent home has been constructed). This is a multi-part move involving an initial elimination of approximately half of the collection.

Librarians from these two very different institutions will discuss how they prioritized their service in times of change and upheaval. The panelists will discuss planning ahead, adapting to changing circumstances, letting go of unnecessary burdens, and the joy of weeding the collection.

This panel will be a follow-up from last year’s panel Rising from the Ashes and Dust: Building
Better Library Services while They're Literally Building You A Better Library and will describe how the University of Kentucky's move has progressed and how the librarians have shed their naïveté. We will compare our experience to the moves at Bricker and Eckler and discuss our shared lessons and different challenges.

Speakers: Beau Steenken, Amelia Landenberger, Carolyn Vinyard, and Patty Alvayay

2:15 pm – 3:15 pm

Session 4A: Tinkham Veale: Ballroom A

Active Shooter Alert: Lessons Learned
In the fall of 2016, an Active Shooter Alert was issued on The Ohio State University campus. During the alert, two of our librarians were teaching, and others were working in the library. In this program, we will talk about that day, what we did, and how we are using what we learned to improve our emergency planning.

Speakers: Sara Sampson and Stephanie Ziegler

Session 4B: Tinkham Veale: Ballroom B

Introduction to Patent and Trademark Searching with the USPTO
IP law is on the rise, but how many of us know exactly what makes a patent or trademark? Where do we start, how do we search? Learn the basics of patents and trademarks using information from the United States Patent and Trademark Office, as well as search techniques for the USPTO and European Patent Office.

Speaker: Jim Bettinger and Sarah Dobransky

3:30 pm – 4:30 pm

Session 5A: Tinkham Senior Classroom

Cool Tools & Poster Sessions
Back by popular demand, this year's cool tools demonstrations and poster sessions will give you a chance to see the latest and greatest tech tools, including Gavel Note, and instructional trends to help you build your information services skillset.

Session 5B: Tinkham Veale – Specific Locations TBD

Roundtables
New this year, we'll have roundtables on various topics. Join a roundtable to share your ideas and experience and to learn from your colleagues exploring similar issues.

Zero-based Budgeting
By its very definition, item-based budgeting means that you budget at the item level for every expense, which is ultimately the most accurate way by which your library can budget. This method sounds good in theory, but it does have its challenges. Not only will you need to predict the cost of each item, but you will also have to defend purchasing each item and be able to explain why it is needed. And then, how do you predict one-off purchases? This roundtable (lead by Larissa Sullivant, IU Robert McKinney School of Law) will explore current challenges of library budgeting and will focus on both advantages and disadvantages of zero-based budgeting.
Work-life Balance
Librarians are asked to do more with less, and the methods tried may be more or less successful. Some methods include finding efficiencies, taking on multiple roles after colleagues retire or move and their positions aren’t filled, and increased cross-departmental collaboration coupled with a flatter management structure. Come talk about what has or has not worked for your library, and learn from your colleagues possible strategies to take home.

Friday, October 17, 2014
9:45 am – 10:45 am

Session 6A: Tinkham Veale: Ballroom A

Creative Spaces: The New Learning Commons at Cleveland-Marshall
In 2017, the Judy and Robert H. Rawson, Jr. Learning Commons opened in the Cleveland-Marshall College of Law Library. The Learning Commons is an open, technologically advanced space that is designed to encourage collaborative learning. This program will discuss issues such as:

• What is a Learning Commons and what do students and faculty use it for?
• What challenges did staff and administration face in the planning and building of the Learning Commons?
• How can libraries deal with a significant loss of space for their collections due to the installation of a Learning Commons?
• How can librarians encourage students and faculty to utilize the Learning Commons?
• How can library staff best handle scheduling events and staffing the Learning Commons?
• What is the future of the Learning Commons?

Speakers: Amy Burchfield, Neeri Rao, and Brian Cassidy

Session 6B: Tinkham Veale: Ballroom B

Access to Print, Access to Justice (Revisited)
At the 2015 ORALL Annual Meeting in Fort Wayne, speaker Kimberly Mattioli gave a presentation entitled “Access to Print, Access to Justice.” That presentation discussed the current state of legal education and the call for law libraries to reduce their print collections. She aimed to move the discussion away from how this phenomenon impacts law librarians and focus instead on how it affects self-represented litigants (many of whom may be digitally illiterate) who rely on print materials to conduct their legal research.

In the intervening two years, Ms. Mattioli has conducted a survey of law libraries from across the country and completed a review of the applicable literature on self-represented litigants, digital literacy, and law library budgets. This presentation will serve to update the ORALL membership on this topic, provide them with survey data, and inform them of the conclusions she has drawn from her research.

Speaker: Kimberly Mattioli

11:10 am – 12:10 am
Session 7A Tinkham Veale: Ballroom A

Analogies Designed to Make Learning Legal Research Easier

Reporters, statutes, and legal encyclopedias are all foreign to first year law students and public patrons (and frankly, some attorneys), but legal research instruction can build on these patrons’ prior research experiences. Research projects based on everyday tasks can help patrons understand how to use legal research tools. We discuss travel research, gift research, and online shopping to introduce patrons to concepts like using secondary sources and faceted searches. This interactive session will also give attendees an opportunity to share their analogies. Attendees will leave with a cumulative list of all of the useful analogies shared during the session.

Speakers: Susan Azyndar, Katherine Kelly, Ingrid Mattson, and Erin Waltz

Session 7B Tinkham Veale: Ballroom B

Slam-Dunk CLEs

The Supreme Court of Ohio’s web page for potential CLE sponsors explains that the Ohio CLE Commission “…approves individual activities, not Sponsors. This means that any sponsor may submit an application for accreditation and, if the activity meets our standards, the program will be approved.”

With their devotion to legal research and education, law libraries are the ideal sponsors for CLE programs, but many law libraries have never offered their own CLEs. The process is simple, and law libraries can rely on the expertise of their staff, their patrons, their local courts, or law school faculty.

“Slam-Dunk CLEs” will illustrate how easy it can be for law libraries to plan a CLE program and obtain approval. While the presentation’s focus will be on county law libraries, the strategies provided will be applicable to any type of law library. “Slam-Dunk CLEs” will also present methods for finding winning topics and speakers and provide examples of library-sponsored CLEs that have proven successful. Finally, the presentation will offer suggestions for even the smallest law libraries with limited staff and resources and invite participants to share their own topic ideas or examples of successful programs they have offered, if applicable.

Speaker: Jennifer Jones
Speaker Biographies

Ashley Ahlbrand is the Interim Assistant Director for Public Services and Educational Technology Librarian at Indiana University Maurer School of Law in Bloomington, Indiana. In addition to managing the reference and circulation faculty and staff of the Jerome Hall Law Library, she teaches in the Advanced Legal Research course and helped develop the online version of the course that she has taught for the past two summers. Based on this experience, and in anticipation of implementing the ABA's revised standards for programs of legal education, she is currently pursuing a graduation certificate in instructional design.

Ms. Ahlbrand maintains an active law license in the state of Indiana and is an active member of the Indiana State Bar Association. She is currently co-authoring an update to the Indiana State Bibliography for GD-SIS and is in the early stages of co-authoring a book on Indiana legal research for Carolina Academic Press.

Patty Alvayay is the Head of Technical Services at the University of Kentucky College of Law Library. Patty Alvayay joined the Law Library at the University of Kentucky in March of 2013 as Systems and Metadata Librarian. She became the Head of Technical Services in January 2017 and facilitated the process of preparing the collection for the library's move into a temporary location during the law school's renovation. As part of this process, she weeded the collection, pared down the microfiche, prepared the online catalog, and tackled the library's storage areas. Prior to working at the University of Kentucky Law Library, Patty earned her Masters in Information Studies from the Syracuse University iSchool and her Bachelors from California State University, Sacramento.

Susan Azyndar is a reference librarian at The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law. In addition, Susan teaches Legal Analysis and Writing (LAW) I and Business and Tax Legal Research. Prior to joining the law library, Susan worked as an assistant district counsel for the United States Army Corps of Engineers. Susan has published articles on teaching legal research and has presented at ORALL, SEALL, and AALL.

Jim Bettinger is a senior subject librarian with the Cleveland Public Library (CPL) in Cleveland, Ohio – a consistent 5-star library from Library Journal. He was the Patent and Trademark Resource Center (PTRC) Program’s 28th Fellowship Librarian from July 2016 – July 2017. Jim’s professional career began as a cataloger at CPL in 1995. He then worked as a reference librarian in the Business Economics and Labor, General Reference, and Government Documents Departments successively. Jim accepted the position of senior subject librarian in Science & Technology Department in 2007, serving as Interim Manager in 2008. He has been the PTRC representative at CPL since 2014. Recently, Cleveland Intellectual Property Law Association (CIPLA) donated $10,000 for children’s programming in recognition of Jim’s outreach efforts to CIPLA members.

Jim earned his MLIS from Dominican University in River Forest, Illinois. His undergraduate career began at Loyola University Chicago, and earned a BBA in finance from Cleveland State University. During this time, Jim was Secretary of the Baseball Club at Loyola and a Northern Ohio Caddie Scholar. He resides in Avon, Ohio with his wife Christine, their two daughters, and their precious apricot cockapoo Taylor Penelope.

Amy Burchfield is the Head of Research and Instructional Services at the Cleveland-Marshall College of Law. She has also worked as a librarian at the Georgetown University Law Center and The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law. Amy received her J.D. from The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law, and her M.L.I.S. and M.A. from Kent State University.
Brian Cassidy is the Student Services Librarian at Cleveland-Marshall College of Law. He has a J.D. from The University of Dayton School of Law, an M.L.I.S. from Kent State University and a B.S. in Political Science from Southern Connecticut State University. Brian has also worked for the West Virginia Law Library and LexisNexis.

L. Cindy Dabney joined the staff of the Jerome Hall Law Library at the Indiana University Maurer School of Law in 2007. As the Outreach Services Librarian, she is liaison and lecturer for people outside the law school who are interested in legal research. She was named associate librarian in 2014, and she has created and maintained relationships with professors and students from all over the campus. Dabney served as a Westlaw student representative in law school at the University of New Mexico and became very good at using the database for online research. This piqued her passion, and she realized how much she enjoyed research and reference work. She attended library school at the University of Washington, where she worked in the Gallagher Law Library, and received a special certificate in law librarianship.

She greatly enjoys teaching, and working one on one with students interested in legal research. At IU, she teaches legal research in the Legal Research and Writing Program and guest lectures for non-law classes. A member of the American Association of Law Libraries, Dabney has published an article in the Legal References Quarterly about citators, a couple of columns about blogs in Australia, a white paper on marketing and outreach, and, with her colleagues Jennifer Morgan and Ashley Ahlbrand, two interactive lessons for the Center for Computer-Assisted Legal Instruction on sources for Indiana law and how to use them.

Sarah Dobransky began her library career as a student assistant working the late night shift at the Case Western Reserve University Law Library circulation desk as a college freshman. From there, she served as the go-to student assistant in various departments including preservation, government documents, and reference. After graduation, she was offered a permanent position at the law library as the Collection Management Supervisor. Between the political science courses and the variety of government and legal publications that she helped process, Sarah fell in love with weird government information. She joined the Cleveland Public Library in late 2015 to supervise the Government Documents department in downtown Cleveland. Since joining CPL she has attended two annual USPTO Patent and Trademark Resource Center (PTRC) annual training seminars, and served as the PTRC representative from July 2016-July 2017. She co-presented the webinar “If You Make it Protect it” for the Federal Depository Library Program Academy earlier this year.

Sarah earned her Bachelor’s Degree in Political Science and Sociology from Case Western Reserve University in 2008. She went on to receive her Masters in Library and Information Science from Kent State University in 2011.

Andrew Dorchak coordinates the services of the reference department team, which helps patrons use the library’s resources more effectively and efficiently. Reference librarians offer personalized assistance to law faculty and students in the form of liaison relationships or personalized research consultations. Dorchak also specializes in foreign and international legal research and support of the Journal of International Law and Canada-United States Law Journal. He obtained his MLS from Kent State University in 1994.

Jennifer Jones is the current Executive Director of the Statewide Consortium of Ohio County Law Libraries. She has been employed by the Franklin County Law Library since January 2015, where she assists in public services, reference, and managing the library’s finances. Before that time, she was the Assistant Law Librarian for the Scioto County Law Library and an instructor for Ohio University’s Southern Campus. She has a B.A. in English from Welch College, an M.A. in English from Marshall University, and an M.L.I.S. from Kent State University.
Katherine Kelly is an associate clinical professor at The Ohio State University, Moritz College of Law where she teaches legal writing and is the director of the Academic Support Program. Katherine was honored with the Morgan E. Shipman award for excellence in teaching in 2016 and the Alumni Award for Distinguished Teaching in 2017. Katherine is the founder of the almost-famous blog, The Bar Exam Wizard, serves as a mentor for the Ohio Supreme Court New Lawyers Program, and is a volunteer soccer, track and basketball coach for Special Olympics.

Shannon Kemen is a reference librarian at the University of Cincinnati Robert S. Marx Law Library. She is responsible for providing reference and research assistance to all library patrons. In addition to her reference duties, Ms. Kemen co-teaches Technology in Law Practice. She is a member of various professional associations both regionally and nationally, and has served as Chair of the Ohio Regional Association of Law Libraries, a chapter of the American Association of Law Libraries. Ms. Kemen has published numerous articles and frequently lectures on legal research topics. Prior to joining the library faculty at the University of Cincinnati, Ms. Kemen was a Reference and Electronic Services librarian at Keating Muething & Klekamp, PLL.

Amelia Landenberger is the Outreach Librarian at the University of Kentucky Law Library. She teaches two sections of 1L Legal Research a year. She is a graduate of three universities in Ohio, with a B.A. in French from Case Western Reserve University, a J.D. from The Ohio State University, and an M.L.I.S. from Kent State University. Amelia spent the 2015-2016 academic year working as the Law Library Fellow at the University of Colorado's William A. Wise Law Library in Boulder, Colorado. Prior to that she gained experience working in five different libraries, including a law library, a medical school library, and her local public library.

Marissa Mason is a research librarian at the Ohio State Supreme Court Law Library. Ms. Mason provides research and reference services to the Justices and court staff, state agencies, attorneys, and the general public. An upstate New York native, she previously worked for the New York State Court of Appeals Library and the Albany Public Library. Marissa holds a B.A. in English from the College of Saint Rose and an M.S.I.S. from the University of Albany.

Kimberly Mattioli is the student services librarian at the Indiana University Maurer School of Law. She is responsible for implementing and coordinating programs for law students. She is also a co-instructor in the Advanced Legal Research class. Kimberly holds a BA from Michigan State University, a JD from the University of Michigan, and an MLS from Indiana University.

Ingrid Mattson is a reference librarian at The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law. In addition to her reference responsibilities, Ingrid teaches Legal Analysis and Writing (LAW) I and Advanced Legal Research. Prior to joining the law library, Ingrid was a licensing and intellectual property attorney in Seattle, Washington. Ingrid has published articles on teaching legal research, contract negotiation and management, and legal research guides, and she has presented on these topics at ORALL, SEAALL, and AALL. She is the 2017-2018 ORALL President.

SaraJean Petite is the Government Resources Manager and Bibliographic Access Librarian at Case Western Reserve University School of Law. Ms. Petite has managed the Federal Depository Library collection at the Judge Ben C. Green Law Library since 2003. She also serves as a reference librarian, catalogs the majority of the library’s monographs and works with special collections, including the library’s collection of tangible faculty publications and the library’s collection of digital issues of the student newspaper, The Docket. She received her MLS from Kent State University in 2001 and her J.D. from Case Western Reserve in August 2017.
Neeri Rao is the Faculty Services Librarian at the Cleveland-Marshall College of Law. Previously, she was a Research Librarian at Steptoe & Johnson LLP in Washington, DC. She received her J.D. from Columbia Law School, and her M.S.L.S. from UNC Chapel Hill.

Sara Sampson is the assistant dean for information services, interim dean for communications, director of the law library, and a senior lecturer at The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law. She manages all aspects of information technology, communications, and the library for the College of Law and teaches the required Legal Analysis and Writing I (LAW I) course each year.

Dean Sampson writes and presents on topics related to legal research and writing and library management. She has coordinated teaching workshops for law librarians and regularly speaks at library conferences. Her most recent publications, both co-authored, include an update of an introductory text to Ohio Legal Research, and an article on developing financial literacy in library staff.

She previously served as the deputy director of the law library and clinical assistant professor of law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and the head of reference and adjunct professor at Georgetown University Law Center in Washington, D.C.

She has taught appellate advocacy, legal writing, legal research skills for practice, advanced legal research, introduction to scholarly note writing, and law librarianship courses. Dean Sampson has worked for all three branches of the Ohio government. During law school, she spent a summer working at the Ohio Legislative Service Commission and a year working at the Ohio Department of Mental Health’s legal department. Before becoming a librarian, she spent five years as a judicial law clerk at the Ohio Fourth District Court of Appeals.

She is a member of the Ohio Bar and Beta Phi Mu, the International Library & Information Studies Honor Society.

Beau Steenken is an Instructional Services Librarian at the University of Kentucky College of Law. Beau joined the Law Library Faculty at the University of Kentucky in September 2010. As Instructional Services Librarian, he engaged in a revamp of the Legal Research curriculum as the UK College of Law shifted from an adjunct-model to a full-time faculty model of LRW instruction. He teaches two to four sections of 1L Legal Research a year, Foreign & International Legal Research every other year, and also coordinates informal research instruction of various sorts. Before coming to the University of Kentucky, he managed to collect a B.A., a J.D., and an M.S.I.S. from the University of Texas, as well as an M.A. in history from Texas State University and an LL.M. in Public International Law from the University of Nottingham, where he also took up archery.

Larissa Sullivant is the Head of Collection Services at Indiana University Robert H. McKinney School of Law. Mus. Sullivant joined the IU Robert H. McKinney School of Law, Ruth Lilly Law Library faculty in January 2017 as Head of Collection Services. Larissa Sullivant has been very active in law library professional organizations on both the local and national levels. She served as president of the Michigan Association of Law Libraries in 2004-2006, and is currently a board member of the Ohio Regional Association of Law Libraries.

Before coming to IU McKinney, Professor Sullivant held various library positions at the University of Michigan Law Library, Ave Maria School of Law Library, and Valparaiso University Law Library.
Carolyn Vinyard is a Research Analyst at Bricker & Eckler LLP. Carolyn very happily concentrates her skills and knowledge on the reference and research roles of librarianship performing in-depth legal and non-legal research for attorneys and staff at the Columbus based law firm of Bricker & Eckler LLP. Prior to returning to Bricker in 2013 she held the position of Saturday Reference Librarian at Capital University Law School assisting students, professors and staff for over six years with their varied research issues. Carolyn began her career when Lexis and Westlaw were entering the information marketplace and for more than twenty years held the position of Director of Library Services at the same firm where she works today. Carolyn received her degree in Drama and Speech from Union College (KY) and her Masters in Library Science from Kent State University.

Erin Waltz is the Public Service Manager for the Supreme Court of Ohio Law Library. In addition, Erin works with the Ohio Criminal Sentencing Commission on research and is the staff liaison for the Task Force on the History of Ohio Courts. Prior to joining the Supreme Court library, Erin was a research librarian at Bricker & Eckler LLP and the Ohio Attorney General’s office.

Stephanie Ziegler is a reference librarian at The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law.
